

The Australian School of Performing Arts is looking for a range of energetic and motivated singing, music and dance teachers to join our dynamic team and inspire girls and boys with a broad Performing Arts education.

- Australian Girls Choir: enjoy teaching a variety of non-traditional choral repertoire to girls who love to sing and dance
- Aus Girls Dance: dance for fun and fitness – no grades, exams or costumes
- a3-Australian Arts Alive: school-based and holiday programs for girls and boys
- Enhance your career and join a talented team of experienced music tutors, singing teachers, dance instructors, choreographers and drama specialists

The Australian Girls Choir is seeking music teachers who have broad Performing Arts skills and are interested in teaching a curriculum that is more 'music theatre' than 'traditional choral'. Our innovative approach to the choir model, and professional standards of performance, requires Tutors who are energetic, spontaneous and flexible. Aus Girls Dance is seeking dance/aerobics instructors who have proven dance or aerobic training and who are interested in learning at teaching the Raw Energy Dance (RED) curriculum. AGC tutors and AGD instructors are also eligible for work with our school-based and holiday programs through a3-Australian Arts Alive.

Staff must be able to participate well in a team, but also have their own sense of performing identity and teaching practice. All teaching hours and rehearsals are paid, usually consisting of one weeknight or Saturday morning; some weekday and holiday work is also available. As weekly classes are extra curricular we find that many of our casual staff hold full time positions outside of the Australian School of Performing Arts, some within the field of Performing Arts education and others drawn from a broad range of industries. Many find that working with ASPA compliments their performance practice, enhances their career, and contributes to their own personal sense of enjoyment.
